MUST READ PSALMS CALL FOR "NIGHTCAP"

Used in Reading Test for Aliens at Ellis Island.

Words in Any Language He Desires New York.-Uncle Sam will soon be conducting great classes in reading the Psalms almost at the feet of the Statue of Liberty. The pre-war practice of examining all immigrants who come by steerage at Ellis island has been restored. More than 1,000 men and women will read from the Psalms there daily, and Miss Liberty, who stands a stone's throw from the island slip, could hear if she were incarnate, Reading from the Psalms is the literacy test for admission to this country, which went into effect in May, 1917, and is now receiving its first real trial because immigration during the war was small. The law provides that an lumnigrant, with a few exceptions, must be able to read from thirty to forty words in any language he or she desires. The department of labor devised the Psalm as the fairest for all Immigration inspectors are equipped with cards in all languages, with verses from the Psalms printed on them. All types of script are repre anese, Russian, and so on-except Chinese, for that nationality is not permitted to immigrate. Lest any alien learn, parrot-like the verse of the Psalm that a friend in this country had to rend, the inspectors have at least 40 different verses in each language, one verse to a card. Primary examination at the Island will require many more employees. Immigration authorities have estimated it will take $1,000,000 more annually to increase the force to a proper size as well as to raise salaries of present employees so that skilled workers will not leave the service for

FIND BRIDE'S BONES IN ROME? Disappearance of Artist's Wife May Be Solved in a Murder Trial.

Rome.-Two developments in the tangled and mysterious case in which Ignatius Mesones, a Peruvian painter, is charged with the murder of his girl bride, came to light. The skeleton of a woman known as Maria Rotellini, who was supposed to have committed suicide here two years ago, was exhumed and positively identified as that of Senora Mesones, and Mesones admitted to the court that his wife had disappeared on December 27, 1917, instead of sailing for America, as he had insisted hitherto. He also expressed the belief that Senora Mes-ones and the Rotellini woman were the same person. Mesones told the court that for the purpose of obtaining money from his wife's family he invented the story that Senora Mesones had gone to America. Investigation by authorities has shown the supposed Maria Rotellini first appeared in Rome on the day Mesones says his wife van-

100 Stagger to Death From Liquor-Laden Sewer. As though in open defiance of con stitutional prohibition, 100 rats staggered bodily on wabbly legs into police headquarters at Duluth, Minn,, less than 12 hours after constitutional prohibition became effective. The rats were driven from the Duluth sewers by the thousands of gallons of liquor poured into the sewers by the police department. They came staggering out the big opening in the sewer made to carry the $30,000 in confiscated liquor emptied into them

Members of the police department killed the rats.
